

The state Department of Transportation reports that as of Friday morning, there were still a few roads closed or under repair. N.C. 8 south of Lexington in Davidson County is expected to open tonight. Rocky Mt. Church Road near Ansonville in Anson County is still under water but is expected to open by next Tuesday. Two roads in Cabarrus County were undermined by the flooding and will reopen in mid-September following repairs. They are Miami Church Road (S.R. 1132) at Cold Springs Road and Zion Church Road (S.R. 1152) at Flows Store Road.
